

An Update from Nanofilm on COVID-19 (03-23-2020)

We're here during this crisis

We know that many of our loyal customers depend on our optical glass and coatings services continuing without interruption during this crisis. We are staying up to date on the current guidelines as the COVID-19 situation continues to evolve and continually keeping in mind the safety of our employees and customers.

Here's what we are doing:

- Our facility is operating and continuing to provide essential services.
- We remain accessible by phone and email during normal business hours or via our web site at www.nanofilm.com
- We have enhanced our cleaning and sanitizing procedures to help stop the spread of this virus.
- Social distancing practices are being observed.
- Employees who can work remotely are working from home.
- We are in regular communication with our vendors to maintain the essential production supplies.

We will be making necessary adjustments as the situation changes. From all of us at Nanofilm we wish you and your family to stay well.
